to the fact that the organ is a small

The Columbia State's talk about "square meals" leads inevitably to the conclusion that eating is the chief conthat city should study the bad effects

Hon. Henry Gassaway Davis of West

COTTON MANUFACTURERS EVIDENCE FAITH IN THIS INDUSTRY

In view of what the public is continually hearing about conditions in the cotton manufacturing industry of the South, it is strange that mill construction goes right along and new mills are being built all the while. In Greenville, S.
C., two new mills, having a total of one hundred thousand spindles, are now under construction. This is only one instance of new construction, while building operations are undoubtedly far below the activities of a few years ago, when mill building in the South was apparently at its greatest height.

If the outlook for cotton mills is as dark as some manufacturers claim, it is certainly bad business policy to invest capital in cotton mills. Another strange feature of this matter is that new mills are generally the property of men who own mills or who are thoroughly familiar with the cotton manufacturing industry and its present condition and future prospects. Perhaps the explanation is that conditions are now bad, but the mill men believe they will improve and are preparing for better times.

There can be no doubt of the fact that the state of this chief industry of the South has been unsatisfactory for several years. There is ample evidence to sustain this view. Many mills have been forced into bankruptcy; but some of the mills must have been making money all along; otherwise, first class business men, thoroughly familiar with the business and with conditions past and present and able to intelligently forecast the future, would be unwilling to risk more millions of money in the cotton manufacturing industry. The logical course to pursue, if the industry is in the state claimed by some manufacturers and the outlook for the future is as gloomy as they contend, is to realize as much as possible on the present investment and quit the business. To put more money in new mills under such circumstances is evidence of lack of judgment and business qualifications.

The facts in the case with reference to cotton manufacturing, however, are probably similar to the facts with reference to other lines of manufacturing and general business. For three or four years conditions have been unsatisfactory, some times positively discouraging; but all lines of business, as well as cotton manufacturing, have suffered, and all will find conditions improved later on.

There is a great future for the cotton manufacturing industry of the South.
No other branch of manufacturing, perhaps, can look forward to a future of such magnitude and importance. The South is the world's great cotton farm and will continue to be. Undoubtedly this section will continue to produce the greater part of the world's cotton supply; and much of the raw material should be transformed into the finished products within the confines of the area where the raw material is produced. Manufacturing in this section will increase in volume, and in profitability as the grade of goods manufactured becomes higher and higher; and there are evidences of the fact that there is to be a steady development of the manufacture of cotton goods of high grade in the South.

So long as time lasts there will be a demand for raw cotton and for the finished products of cotton; and as the years go by the demand is bound to enlarge; to enlarge as population increases, as new markets are opened, as new fabrics are made and as the people of the world are educated to the use of cotton fabrics.
Such a thing as the destruction of the cotton manufacturing industry is as preposterous as the idea of the destruction of the steel industry and the idea that there will be a diminution of the demand for cotton products is as preposterous as would be the assertion that there will be a decrease of the demand for food products in a world where the population is steadily increasing and where human desires and necessities lead men to constantly increasing expenditures for the necessities and luxuries of life.

The South's cotton manufacturing industry may not be at present on a satisfactory basis, but the men who control it will find a way to maintain it until business conditions improve and the country is again in the prosperous condition which will cause all lines of commerce and trade to resume activities similar to those of a few years ago. Cotton manufacturing in this section of the United States is in its infancy and the world has yet to witness its growth to its full proportion of development and prosperity. The enormous profits of the past may not materialize again in any case, but they are not absolutely essential to success and to genuine prosperity. Smaller profits will justify the continuance and development of the industry. It must be evident, therefore, that men who are most familiar with the industry and who have been among the leaders in its rebuilding in the South have faith in the future of the industry when they continue to build and equip mills and prepare for a larger demand for manufactured products. The secret of their course must be their faith in the business; which is based on the philosophical reasoning that this great industry, one of the largest and most important in the world, is destined to endure and to enlarge and that it will continue to be a safe and profitable proposition for the investment of capital.

HOW COMMISSION GOVERNMENT WAS DEFEATED IN JERSEY

One day this week commission government was defeated in two cities of New Jersey, Hoboken and New Brunswick. The politicians of both parties in the two cities were strenuously opposed to the commission. One ground of their opposition was the fact that the commission plan is bad for professional politicians and grafters, in that it injures their business. Another ground of opposition in this case was doubtless the fact that Governor Wilson favors the commission plan, and the professional politicians of both parties in New Jersey are opposed to Wilson and willing to take advantage of every opportunity to strike a blow at the Governor or the measures favored by him. The commission plan was badly worsted in New Brunswick and Hoboken, and the methods by which this was accomplished are mentioned in the Baltimore Sun as follows:

"The commission plan of city government was laid over a barrel in Hoboken, N. J., yesterday and treated to a wallowing with fence rails, railroad tracks and young trees. The Democratic organization and the Republican organization, forgetting all customary differences upon high economic matters, joined amicably in the day's sport. The firemen and policemen of the town were on the field at dawn; the saloon-keepers began their benevolent work the night before; all day the New York ferryboats brought squads of experienced voters from City Hall Park and the Bowery. Old-fashioned ballot-boxes were used; any Hoboken or pseudo-Hoboken, registered or unregistered, was free to step up and cast a ballot. In three polling places the election officers, on receiving what they regarded as enough votes for their needs, shut up shop and went home. An exotic voter from Manhattan, arrested by some blundering cop, was defended in police court by the corporation attorney of the town. The net result was a majority of 1,953 votes against the commission plan.

"In New Brunswick, another Jersey town, the same game was played.
Here, as in Hoboken, the Democratic organization and the Republican organization joined hands. All job-holders, from heads of departments down to watchmen on the city dumps, spent the day at the polls. Voting talent was imported from the surrounding country; the price of votes, beginning, perhaps, at a reasonable day's wage, tumbled rapidly to a mere pittance. Toward the end, it is said, it actually got down to one whiskey, two beers or 10 cents in cash. When the ballots were counted it was found that a majority of 1,245 stood against the commission plan.

"Thus the politicians of New Jersey, in two towns of that great republic, rebuked Gov. Woodrow Wilson for his extravagant utterances against them and his extravagant efforts to knock them out. And thus the people of New Jersey enjoyed a day of extremely dramatic and memorable enlightenment.
The commission plan will come up again in Hoboken and New Brunswick two years hence. It will come up in a number of other Jersey towns within the next six months. The manner in which it was defeated yesterday has provided its advocates with the most eloquent of all imaginable arguments for its adoption. The clear fact, now demonstrated beyond a doubt, that all politicians and political grafters, without regard to party, are violently opposed to it will make thousands of votes for it—and on some fair day, soon or late, there will be enough such votes to put it through, even in New Brunswick and Hoboken."

They have big things in Georgia, including the size of the natural gas wells in Atlanta, but that State now comes forward with a baby two years old which weighs 122 pounds. We believe it was numbers and not weight or quality, insisted upon by Mr. Roosevelt in his campaign against race suicide, so he will probably not be impressed by this latest effort of the native State of his mother.

Last year's cotton crop was worth nearly a billion dollars. Cotton is the greatest money crop of the world, and the South has practically a monopoly of its production. In addition, the South can produce successfully all other crops known to the Temperate Zone, and some which flourish in the tropics. Is it any wonder that the agricultural South is exciting the admiration and the wonder of the world?

The Root amendment to the reciprocity bill was in the interest of the paper trust and certain other trusts, which are desirous of having the reciprocity measure defeated. The Root amendment would have accomplished its purpose had it been adopted in the Senate, but its defeat removes the most formidable obstacle to the adoption of the reciprocity measure in a form which will cause it to be effective.

The "Back Home" movement, which has for its purpose to induce people who have left the Southern States to return to this section from the West and elsewhere, is a commendable movement. We need, also, in the South, a stay at home campaign. There is no good reason sufficient to induce the average man to leave the South and go elsewhere. Those who go are, of course, not convinced on this point and many of them must learn by experience that the advantages offered by this section are difficult to duplicate or surpass in other sections. Citizens of this section should be slow to seek homes in other parts of the country. They should familiarize themselves with the resources and possibilities, the business and the advantages of their own section first, and then compare this with other sections and, if possible, visit and study other sections before exchanging a home in the South for one in the West or anywhere else.

DEAL IS COMPLETED.

C. & O. and Seaboard Air Line Get Carolina, Clinchfield and Ohio.

Atlanta, Ga., June 29.—As a result of a meeting of the railroad men held recently in Spartanburg, S. C., definite arrangements have been made whereby the Carolina, Clinchfield and Ohio Railway will be leased by the Chesapeake & Ohio and the Seaboard Air Line. This means through trains from Chicago, Cleveland, Pittsburgh and intermediate points of the middle West, via the Chesapeake and Ohio, Carolina, Clinchfield and Ohio and the Seaboard Air Line, to points in the South. The Clinchfield road will be extended from St. Paul, Va., forty miles to Elkhorn City, Ky., where connection will be made with the Chesapeake and Ohio. The Seaboard Air Line already connects with the Clinchfield road at Bostock, N. C.

The meeting at Spartanburg was attended by Edwin Hawley, John B. Dennis, George W. Stevens, Frank Trumbull, S. Davies Warfield, Vice President Caples and other officials of the roads interested. Frank A. Vanderlip, president of the National City Bank of New York, also attended the meeting, and with the other men named made an inspection trip over the Clinchfield Railway.

S. Davies Warfield, who was one of the receivers of the Seaboard, and who is now chairman of its executive committee, was largely instrumental in bringing about the new arrangement.

The Clinchfield road occupies a strategic position, as it holds the only gateway through the mountains, giving connection with the middle West. The Clinchfield road was built by the Cumberland Corporation, and the total investment in building the road and purchasing coal lands was something over $55,000,000. It is learned that existing relations of the Clinchfield Railroad with other connections will not be disturbed.

SUFFRAGISTS STAND PAT.

They Are Determined to Put on Forth of July Demonstrations.

Chicago, June 29.—A clash between suffragettes and police is looked for here on the Fourth of July, if the attitude of Marquis Eaton, president of the Sane Fourth Commission, and Mrs. Kenneth Luther Hartshorn, chairman of the Cook County Committee of the suffragist party, remains unchanged.

Mrs. Hartshorn informed Mr. Eaton today that the woman's party will put on a suffragette demonstration at each of the parks where there is a Sane Fourth program. Mr. Eaton, in reply, declared that nothing of the kind would be permitted. He declared that the police would be called upon if necessary.
Mrs. Hartshorn declares that the police would be exceeding their authority in interfering with the demonstration, and that she is going ahead with arrangements to take part in the entertainment.

REAL STRUGGLE IS ON.

House of Lords Now Wrestling With Veto Bill.

London, England, June 29.—The real struggle over the Parliament bill dealing with the veto power of the House of Lords began this afternoon when the Lords entered upon committee stage with the Marquis of Lansdown, leader of the opposition in the upper chamber, and his followers apparently determined to press the official amendments as announced by the marquis at the reassembling of Parliament June 26.

These amendments provide for the exclusion from the operation of the measure, the bills such as that relating to Irish Home Rule for a joint sitting in case of a disagreement between the two houses and far a referendum to the country in other cases.

Whips had been sent out by both parties and the benches were crowded with members. Among the many visitors in the galleries were Whitelaw Reid, the American ambassador, and Charles P.
Taft.

Debate on the bill is likely to be prolonged until the end of next week.

MUST ELIMINATE MURPHY.

Albany, N. Y., June 29.—The absolute elimination of Charles Francis Murphy as leader is the only thing that can save the Democratic party in this State, according to Thomas Mott Osborne, recently resigned State Forest, Fish and Game Commissioner. Mr. Osborne, in a letter from Berlin to James K. Sague, vice chairman of the Democratic League, and mayor of Poughkeepsie, which was made public today, says he "absolutely declines to follow Mr. Murphy's leadership to further disgrace and inevitable defeat."

He objects to Mr. Murphy's domination Mr. Osborne says, "because his leadership has stood and stands for ignorance and commercialism and its treatment of legislation has been imbecilic." When political parties are governed by the financial interests of its leaders instead of by genuine politics, continues Mr.
Osborne, "then rottenness and dire corruption are bound to flourish until corrected."

Frederick Manuell, Maryland block, Butte, Montana, bought a bottle of New-

Not Beautiful to Modern Eyes.

The famous beauties of the world are wise when they leave no portraits of themselves, says a writer. Take Marguerite of Valois. She was an immortal, dishonorable, criminal, scheming, unscrupulous, villainous, but she was dowered with such charm that there was not a sinner or an enemy she could not charm if she tried. No, nor a woman—even the wives of her lovers. Men came from every country, taking year-long journeys, only to see her, and went away after a little glimpse saying they had "seen loveliness itself." Then one sees her portraits. Too much forehead, not enough eyebrow; a straight nose and expressive mouth (in one picture a lovely mouth) and that is all. Mary Queen of Scots was lovely—three kingdoms battled because of her beauty—and yet her pictures leave one cold. Fouche said her portrait showed every trait of the lowest criminal type. That was before he knew whose picture he criticized.

Ancient "Remedies."

Some of the sufferers from coughs and colds may feel disposed to try one of the remedies recommended by Pliny. These include wolf's liver dissolved in hot wine, honey mixed with the gall of a bear and powders made from rabbit skins and bullock's horns burned and pounded together. Should one's illness resist these simple remedies for a cough he might try wrapping any of his fingers in the skin of a freshly killed dog. Tree frogs, too, are excellent for all forms of catarrh. Place one in the mouth for a minute, and when he makes his escape the sufferer is cured. No harm is done to the frog. For a cold in the head Pliny prescribes a simple yet infallible remedy—three kisses on the mouth of a mule.

COUNTING UNCLE SAM'S
CASH IN NEW YORK

Eleven Men Will be Five Weeks on The Job—New York Crusade of Which Good Citizens Approve—Prosperity in The South.

(By ROBERT LEE CARTER.)
Special to Telegram.

New York, June 28.—They are busy stock-taking down at the sub-treasury these hot summer days. Whenever Uncle Sam gets a new man to look after his New York branch money shop, it is necessary to count up the contents of the cash drawer so that the new boss may know just what he is responsible for.

Inasmuch as he carries something like $144,000,000—some money that—in the building at Nassau and Wall, it is quite a little job to count it.

Charles S. Millington took charge of the sub-treasury a few days ago and at once set eleven expert money counters at work. They are still at it and will be pretty much all of July. It takes eleven men just about five weeks to count $144,000,000 and they have to be master money counters at that in order to get through the job in that time. It is worth note by the way that Uncle Sam's New York bank roll contains something like $50,000,000 in the revered gold coin.

There is one crusade now under way in New York which has the hearty sympathy of every decent man and woman in the big town. If it is successful much will be forgiven Mayor Gaynor and his police department.

There is in the city an element of young men whose idea of fun consists in be-defiling peaceable citizens, insulting defenceless women and in every possible way making nuisances of themselves among the Sunday crowds homeward bound from the various summer resorts about the city. It had come to a point when it was better for a man who did not care for a pitched battle with these bloodhounds, to keep his family at home on Sunday. As this is about the only day a great many New York ers have for enjoying an outing with their families, Mayor Gaynor decided something should be done, something generally is done.

Here is what happened: 100 of the hustiest and scariest young policemen on the force are detailed each Sunday to put on their Sunday-go-to-meeting, citizens clothes and ride back and forth between the city and the pleasure resorts.
As soon as a gang of these young rowdies 'start something' the 'strong arm' squad as it is called gets busy, and they enjoy it. The police magistrates have joined in the good work and jail sentences are invariably dealt out to the hoodlums.

It is now as safe to travel from Coney Island to New York at night as it is, say between Chihuahua and Torreon and at the rate of progress now being made before the summer is over a man may take his family for an outing with no fear of having to fight or submit to insult.

That there may be the most cordial friendship between the United States and Brazil is the earnest desire of the people of the latter country according to Dr. Theophile Ribeiro, of Belo Horizonte, Minas Geraes, Brazil, who is in this country, commissioned by his government to make a study of the conditions in the cotton sections of the South, with a view to adopting in Brazil any improved methods there may be here.

Dr. Ribeiro visited the rice sections in 1904, with the result that Brazil profited largely by the information gained.
"The constitution of Brazil is copied from that of the United States," said Dr. Ribeiro, "and in every way Brazil has given evidence of its great interest and its friendship for this country. Our people entertain the utmost good feeling for your country, but we would have larger trade relations. The business between the two countries has increased, but there is room for much larger business. We earnestly desire that your people should visit Brazil and see what opportunities are offered.

"Political conditions are tranquil," added Dr. Ribeiro. "The shooting affair a few months ago in Rio Janeiro had absolutely no political significance. The country is at peace."

The South was very generally represented in New York last week by a number of leading bankers who came on to confer with the New York men of money concerning the best methods of handling cotton bills of lading.

Without exception these men were in most optimistic mood as to business conditions in the Southern States. They are in close touch with the situation and they have no doubts as to the immediate future.

There is no reason why the South should not have a prosperous year. It has received a very large amount of money for its old cotton and promises to grow a bounteous crop this year, and as the yield for the last two years has been light the price of the staple may continue very remunerative, even though the 15c level will probably be radically departed from. Certain very influential banking interests some time ago made optimistic calculations concerning Southern enterprises, particularly the railroads, and made substantial purchases of stocks.

Heretofore the South has been notable for generous railroad dividends, but better times would appear to lie ahead.
Wall street credits the remarkable advance in Southern Railway shares mainly to Morgan buying.

The New York Times had in a recent issue an interesting dispatch from its East Haddam, Conn., correspondent. It said:

"W. G. F. Price, a resident of New York, who has his summer home and a small farm up there, has undertaken to raise sub-tropical products from the soil of Connecticut. Last year he exhibited at the Middlesex County Fair samples of cotton which he raised on his farm.
He has planted nearly an acre of pen-nuts this year. He expects to raise a good crop."

Col. Price is a student of intensive farming. For many years he lived in Georgia. Col. Price's experiments with cotton and peanuts in Connecticut is the first attempt to raise sub-tropical products of this nature in this region.

I met Col. Julian McCurry, of Hartwell, Ga., president pro tem of the Georgia State Senate, the other day. He is on his way to California via Niagara Falls on his wedding trip.

Col. McCurry thinks the Georgia Legislature, which is now in session, will elect Gov. Hoke Smith United States Senator to succeed Senator Terrell, who is ill. He also thinks that John M. Slaton, now president of the Georgia Senate, will become governor and will be elected for the full term. So runs the line of succession which Georgia honor except when the line is broken by such fights as Hoke Smith and Little Joe Brown got into two years ago.
When Slaton has served his term Mr.
McCurry is likely to project his 250 pounds into the scrap for the gubernatorial nomination.

Mrs. Martha Butler, seventy-five, who has twenty-three children, has seen her last daughter married, and feels that she can live out her days in content. Mrs.
Butler lives at Corona, Long Island, where the daughter was married to William H. Avery.

Half a Million Golfers.

It appears from unofficial statistics that there are in this country half a million golfers, more than twice as many as five years ago. Doubtless the devotion of President Taft to the game has given it a stimulus, not only because of the high office he holds and but because it demonstrates that a man of middle-age with an undue amount of flesh can find not only joy but benefit from chasing a small white rubber ball around the lot. It has set many others to thinking, so that in these days clubrooms are deserted for the open air.

Ten years ago golf was looked up on as a sort of social fad. It was considered a sort of social fad. The idea that a man could maintain his dignity or get pleasure out of such a silly proceeding as knocking a ball into a hole seemed ridiculous. It was only as people began to try it that they discovered the resources of the game. It calls for more qualities than any other contest—a composure such as few possess. Many obey the call of the game, but few achieve distinction.

Queen Alexandra's Whims.

Queen Alexandra is fond of soft, subdued colors and pale shades of rose, green and blue have been largely used in the redecoration of Marlborough House, which is now being prepared for her occupation. She much dislikes changes in her rooms, and it is said she is so particular about everything being put in exactly the same place that the plans of her rooms have been made showing exactly where each object is meant to be, so that when anything is moved it can be replaced in its original position.

Women Now Are Flour Sacks.

We clothe ourselves in garments which cling convulsively to us, just below our arms, and flow downwards, in long, lean lines to our ankles. Modern dress is severely simple, and simply severe. We strive and struggle, pinch and pad to turn ourselves out animated examples of flaccid flour-sacks. Up to date Eve is like nothing on earth but a sack of flour, tied round the neck.—London M. A. P.

HARVARD AND YALE
IN ROWING RACES

Last Big Intercollegiate Event Occurs Today—Both Crews Look Good And Result Cannot be Forecasted—Some Harvard-Yale History.

Special to Telegram.

New London, Conn., June 29.—The last of the big intercollegiate rowing races of the season, and one which promises to prove a fitting climax to the most successful year the sport has witnessed in a long time, has brought to New London by the thousands partisans of Harvard and Yale, who meet tomorrow in the time-honored dual struggle for supremacy in oarsmanship between these two foremost universities of the nation.
Probably the greatest crowd that ever witnessed a Yale-Harvard race will line the banks of the Thames tomorrow.

Several hundred young rowing enthusiasts who visited at Poughkeepsie for the intercollegiate regatta on Tuesday have come here to see tomorrow's race, including about half the members of the crews that competed in the five-cornered event. It was predicted today that fully twenty thousand persons will be on hand when the special excursions have arrived tomorrow.

Neither Coach Kennedy nor Coach Wray would send their charges over the course today. The men were kept in doors and put at the rowing machines for brief spells merely to keep their muscles limber.

In the big race the varsity eights, Harvard seems to have a slight advantage over the blue. But the speed of the Crimson hangs large contingent on whether or not the bow oar will be pulled by the regular, Gordon Balch, who has been laid up with a bad knee. Even at this late hour, Jim Wray has not decided whether his crack lead oarsman will be able to stand the gaff. If he does not row tomorrow, George Von L.
Meyer, Jr., son of the Secretary of the Navy, will take his seat in the boat, moved up from No. 2 in the four and causing a substitution in that boat. The other seats in the varsity will be filled as follows: Stratton, 2; Metcalf, 3; Goodale, 4; Withington, 5; Strong, 6;

Cutler, 7; Newton, stroke, and Abeles, coxswain.

The Harvard varsity will weigh about seven pounds heavier to the man than Yale, tipping the beam at about 173 pounds, while the New Havenites will weigh in around the neighborhood of 171.

Yale experienced a disastrous early season, losing to the crews of Pennsylvania, Princeton and Cornell in unbroken succession. Accordingly a sweeping revolution took place in Yale rowing matters, marked by the return to fundamental principles, change of stroke, instruction in pair oars to learn the new model and a long grind each day to develop the men's wind.

In addition to doing these things, Coach John Kennedy engaged Fred Plaisted, the veteran sculler, to take charge of the rigging of the shells and act as his lieutenant generally. Plaissted proved a most invaluable assistant, and there is talk of re-engaging him next year.
As a result of the thorough overhauling given the squad, Yale will take the water tomorrow with a finished crew far different from the aggregation that went down to defeat in the earlier races.

Yale's varsity eight will face starter Meikleham tomorrow made up as follows: Froft, bow; Field, 2; Scully, 3; Tucker, 4; Romeyn, 5; Philbin, 6; Van Blarcom, 7; Lowe, stroke, and Barnum, coxswain.

In spite of the fact that the varsity race has gone to Harvard for the past three years, Yale is still two races ahead of her rival. Since 1852 these two great institutions have had 44 varsity races. Of these Yale has captured 23, and Harvard 21. They have had various systems of rowing and rigging and many different coaches, yet they are only two races apart on the sum totals.

An interesting point to note is that only occasionally have they alternated as victors. Much more often has one struck a winning gait and kept it up for two, three or more years. This is the case at present with Harvard, and rowing men are wondering when it will end.

At one period when old Bob Cook had developed a system at Yale whereby he kept the Freshmen supplying magnificent material each season for the following year's varsity—just as Courtney does now at Cornell—Harvard's annual pilgrimage to the Thames seemed useless and hopeless. But the spell was finally broken; and so it will be in the present case, if not tomorrow, then some later time.

The Harvard freshmen look somewhat stronger than the Yale class crew. They have given the varsity several hard brushes during the training workouts and would make worthy foe for the regulars. The Crimson freshmen will be boasted thus: Carver, bow; Trumbull, 2; Reynolds, 3; Taylor, 4; Curtis, 5; Gardner, 6; Mills, 7; Curtis, stroke, and Roosevelt, coxswain.

While there is not so much interest in the varsity four contest as in the other two races, it promises to be closer than either, both quartets being in the pink of condition and evenly matched both as to weight and skill.

When Up in the Air.

We have frequently been asked to suggest some form of dress for women airshippers, some sort of aerial costume for lady aeronauts, and it is only after continual persuasion that we offer the following advice regarding dress for female balloonists:

1. Raiment very plainly—aeroplanely, in fact.
2. Your hat must contain a flower—self-raising flour is most appropriate, as it will help the machine to rise.
3. If you wear any flowers at your breast, they must be made of paper-fly-paper.
4. You should wear a dress with old fashioned balloon sleeves.
5. Do not wear long hatpins, as they tend to attract lightning, and when you are up in an airship lightning doesn't strike twice in the same place —it doesn't have to, as there isn't anything left to strike the second time.
We would suggest fastening your hat to your hair with clothespins.—Judge's Library.

"Pa," said Freddy, "what is a social scale?"

"Generally speaking," replied Pa, "its a place where they weigh money."—

NEGRO FEUD BROKE OUT YESTERDAY IN WARNERSVILLE

A shooting fray that excited even the battle scarred colored residents of Warnersville, a notorious negro settlement in the suburbs of the city, occurred yesterday about the middle of the afternoon when Jim George and Tom Slade, two large negroes, met and opened fire upon each other. George used a heavily loaded shot-gun for the encounter and this superior artillery silenced Slade's smaller battery of a pistol when a few of the shot located in the arm of the latter gunman.

It seems from all accounts that the two men have never effected a Damon and Pythias relation between themselves and prompted by a great quarrel concerning the distribution of some whiskey, recently acquired jointly, by mutual agreement both armed themselves and at the next meeting they opened the battle with the above-mentioned effect. George fired his trusty weapon only once but Slade had previously taken the lead with 5 or 6 shots in rapid succession. The timely arrival of Officer Foushee, who unfortunately for the pair, happens to be connected with the police force, saw a very successful enactment of the "peacemaker" scene and landed the fierce belligerents behind the bars of the city jail with little damages done to any member of the party. The entire matter will be threshed out in Municipal court this morning, with the outlook decidedly bright for both of the negroes to suddenly discover that they are regularly licensed and initiated members of the Greensboro street improvement brigade.

The man who delights in home will take delight in making that home beautiful and comfortable.

COTTON LETTER TO J. E. LATHAM.
New Orleans, June 29.—The map shows fair and hot in Texas and Oklahoma, no rain except .01 at Houston. Part cloudy to fair in central and eastern States, scattered showers best in Alabama. Temperatures average 96 degrees for Texas; 100 for Oklahoma.

Indications are for generally fair weather in Western States except possibly cloudy and cooler in eastern corner of Oklahoma and Texas, but no indications whatever for general rains.

Liverpool was depressed for some cause, possibly the seamen's strike, but recovered on hearing the facts about the weather in the Western States. Spots 3 lower, sales 4,000. There was also a rumor circulated probably for effect, that a leading operator in New York was retiring from the market. The party referred to emphatically denied the rumor this morning and is said to have expressed the opinion that Texas prospects were the poorest in many years.

Our market opened 4 higher and advanced to 13.14 for October, but support was restricted for the reason that the usual notice day depression is looked for in New York tomorrow. However, reports of crop deterioration are becoming more general from the Western States and some people are beginning to doubt if the coming bureau will show the gain in percentage condition talked about. At present the trade looks for a condition between 88 and 90 comparing with 87.9 on May 25th. The bureau will appear Monday, July 3rd, at 11 o'clock, our time and will give the condition average for the belt on June 25th. The report of the Journal of Commerce on Arkansas and Tennessee is very good. HAYWARD & CLARK.

Crop Estimated at 89.6 Per Cent.
Memphis, Tenn., June 29.—The National Ginners' Association estimate of the condition of cotton crop at 89.6 per cent.

Hot in Texas.

Marshall, Texas, June 29.—High temperatures prevail all over the belt with no indication of rain this afternoon. Reports from west and northwest Texas are very bad, the crop suffering for rain. Late cotton is drying up in places. Reports bad from western Oklahoma except small section having had light showers. The upland of east Texas now falling rapidly.

Drought in India.

New York, June 29.—Liverpool cables: "India crop deteriorating on account of drought."

Drought Has Been General.

Chicago, June 29.—The lack of rain so far this season is by no means confined to the Western wheat and corn belts. New England, the Atlantic States and the greater part of the South have suffered from extreme drought. Since April 1st the New England States have had only three-quarters of their normal rainfall. New York and Pennsylvania are very short. The South Atlantic States have had little more than half their supply, with Charleston, S. C., for example, getting 5.3 inches against a normal of 14.8. The Gulf States show only 50.8 per cent of their proper supply. This means poor oat crops in the South and East as well as West and a low corn condition in important parts of the South. Our weather troubles are national this year.

Journal of Commerce Report.

New York, June 27.—The Journal of Commerce says:

Arkansas—Hot, dry weather has retarded growth in many sections but the plant is strong and healthy and fields are well cultivated and clean. Boll weevils have made their appearance but the drought has kept them down. Recent rains have greatly benefited cotton and percentage condition will show some improvement over last month when it was 82.4. Very little complaint of a late season are heard.

Tennessee—Cotton started late, but continued dry weather forced growth, till now the season is about normal, stands are irregular but the weed is healthy and growing fast after much needed rains. Fields are well worked and prospects for favorable growth are very good. Percentage condition will probably figure out several points higher than last month when it was 81.3. The season is about normal.

Gilmer serving as pallbearers the body of the deceased was laid in its last resting place at Green Hill cemetery, after the touching funeral service had been held.

Do You Read the WANT ADS?

Have you found out what interesting news is contained in the want page? There is a reason why want ads are interesting to everybody. Supply and demand create a market. The man who has an article which he has no further use for, with the assistance of a little want ad, can find readily the other man who is looking for just that article. On the other hand the man who is looking for some particular article can find the man who has it and who it perhaps has not occurred that he can sell it, thus by means of the want ad purchasers and sellers for small articles get together.

Try a Want Ad in The Telegram, it makes no difference what you want, tell it here.

JULY FOURTH PICNIC PROGRAM ISSUED

Greatest Event in History of Mills Being Planned For July Fourth—Musical Events, Speeches, Athletic Events, Vaudeville And Dancing on Program in Addition to Dinner.

The program for the seventh annual picnic given by the owners of the Proximity, Revolution and White Oak Mills, complimentary to the mill operatives and their friends have been issued. The program is in keeping with the patriotism of the gentlemen who annually remember their employees on July 4, being in the National colors of red, white and blue.

As has been stated in The Telegram before this event will by far eclipse all former events, John J. Phoenix, whose duty it is to make the arrangements, having been instructed to spare neither time nor expense to make the day one of joy and gladness to everyone who partakes of the hospitality of the management of the mills.

The dinner will cost something like $5,000 for Mr. Phoenix knows what people like to eat and he has not failed to lay by enough for all and then some. He has ordered bananas, pineapples, watermelons, ice cream, etc., by the car load, astonishing though it may seem. A glance at the menu, which is given below, will convince anyone of the good things to eat that await the operatives and their friends and when it is remembered that from ten to twenty thousand people will be the guests of the mill management it can be seen that an enormous supply was necessary.

The program will begin at 9:30 in the morning and will continue throughout the day until 6 o'clock in the evening. Truly the day will be one long to be remembered.

The program will be as follows:
9:30 to 10:30—Band concert by Union Textile Band.

10:30 to 11—Concert by Proximity Baptist church choir.

11—Speechmaking: A. C. Holt, master of ceremonies. Invocation by Rev. S. E. Richardson. Addresses by J. W. Cone, E. Sternberger, B. M. Cone, H. Sternberger, J. E. Hardin, R. G. Campbell, James Bangle, Thomas Gradner, George P. Stone.

They will return about August 5.

In Honor of Miss Morton.

Mrs. T. G. Proctor was the hostess to a number of young people of the community at a delightful picnic given last evening at Lindley park complimentary to her house guest, Miss Evie Morton, of Durham. The guests, about a score in number, chaperoned by Mesdames T. G. Proctor and J. T. Hire, went to the cool resort early in the evening and several hours were spent in enjoyment of the outing. A bounteous supper was served under the trees in true picnic style and the boys and girls greatly enjoyed the chicken, cakes, candies and other delicacies that were placed before them. The evening was then spent in the swings, paddling in the boat on the lake, and with the added feature of some excellent impromptu music furnished by several talented members of the party. The guests returned to their homes at a late hour, tired but happy in the pleasures of the evening.

For Mrs. DeButts.

To a number of the young lady friends of herself and her honoree Miss Fannie Barringer yesterday charmingly entertained at a "5 O'clock Tea" complimentary to Mrs. Sidnor DeButts, whose wedding was announced Saturday evening, several days after a romantic elopement that culminated in a happy marriage. The home of Miss Barringer on Ashe street was attractively decorated with ferns and potted plants. Four tables were set for bridge and two hours were spent at this exciting sport. Miss Margarette Forbis was the winner of the prize, a beautiful bouquet of sweet peas, and the honor guest, Mrs. DeButts, was presented with a bouquet of the same flowers. After this exciting contest a delicious salad course was served by the charming young hostess. Though informal in its nature the affair was greatly enjoyed by every guest.

Big Dance on July Fourth.

The night of July 4th is the date decided upon and the large and smooth pavilion has already been secured for the use of the members during the big event. The dance will be in the nature of a subscription dance and will be open to the members of the lodge and all their friends for the small admission fee of 50 cents for a lady and her escort. The entrance receipts will be used to pay for the handsome piano recently purchased and placed in the lodge rooms. The music for the occasion will be furnished by Hood's orchestra and patriotic decorations planned will be an added feature. Tickets are now on sale and can be obtained from the club secretary, E. W. Stewart, or from any member of the committee on preparations, composed of F. M. Hood, F. M. Garner, Julian Price, W. Z. Brown and J. R. Atwell.

Fight Champions in Police Court

The prevailing quietness of affairs in police circles was manifested yesterday in Municipal court by the brevity of the docket. No cases were tried Wednesday morning and but two were enrolled for consideration at the last session.

Annie Brown and Minnie Gibson, two alleged notorious and disreputable negro women, were arraigned on the charge of engaging in an affray near the fair grounds on last Tuesday. The latter named aspirant for pugilistic honors is a decided heavyweight, while Annie was the defendant of the lightweight title. Nevertheless, she unhesitatingly deserted her class of fighters to seek higher honors in the roped arena with an opponent who has a noticeable advantage in size. The battle throughout its duration of several rounds was quite spirited, but the lightweight champion was not in her usual good form, her knocking blows lacked strength, and a humiliating defeat at the hands of Minnie seemed imminent but the stinging disgrace was saved her by the timely appearance of "Parson" Jones, of the local police force. But the appearance of the cop was also untimely for so persistent was he in his desire for their company that he required a goodly bond, guaranteeing the presence of each at court before he left them.

The evidence in the trial showed the conqueror to have been more in fault for staging the fight and as hers was not the lot that had suffered such undignified and crushing disgrace by a defeat in a public and legally conducted fight under Marquis of Queensbury rules. His Honor on the bench granted her the privilege of paying the larger fine, as she could better afford to do, having won the larger share of the gate receipts. She was very prompt and obliging in remitting $10 and the costs. For her share in the amusement of the spectators Annie bore several well developed bruises and of necessity paid a fighter's tax of $5 plus the costs of the action of the court.

The other case was an unimportant affair, against W. W. Hunter, on the charge of forcible trespass. No defense for the misdemeanor could be offered and the guilty one was taxed with a fine of $15 and the costs.

"How on earth can I sell a woman a Hoosier Cabinet when she comes in to buy a porch rocker?"

"My dear man," said the office boy, "Easiest thing you know. Keep a Hoosier handy near the door and as she goes out say, 'By the way, here's a machine that will save you two hours every day this hot weather. Then go to it with the demonstration and it sells itself.' We are sale agents for this Cabinet in Greensboro and we want to say that it is all in a class by itself.

Washington, June 29.—(Special).—

There is room for almost anything to happen in regard to tariff legislation with the general mixup which has been developed. The insurgent Republicans, those who made a fight for lower duties when the Payne-Aldrich bill was before congress two years ago, seem to have an opportunity to show what they will do with the increased power they have acquired.

Both in the house and the senate there is a strong feeling among Republicans in favor of material downward revision of the tariff, and unless something happens to stave off the movement it is possible that we will see material reductions made.

From the very beginning those who could see the situation clearly have maintained that the Canadian reciprocity agreement was the entering wedge of great tariff reductions. It was inevitable, because those Republican states most seriously affected by the Canadian agreement were sure to retaliate. It looks as if they would have their revenge earlier than was first anticipated.

Will Taft Veto the Wool Bill?
"Let them pass it. Taft will veto it," was the remark of one of the leading members of the finance committee, speaking of the wool bill. But if the insurgents and Democrats make the wool bill a part of the Canadian reciprocity agreement then Taft cannot veto one without the other.

Would he veto the wool bill? The only reason for so thinking is that the president has not recommended any other kind of tariff revision except the Canadian agreement and has said that other schedules should wait on the report of the tariff board. But he has also said that the present wool schedule was indefensible. Altogether it is quite a wonderful situation which has developed. The extra session may be a real Pandora box.

They Missed Aldrich.
The regular Republicans in the senate missed the shrewd manipulations of Senator Aldrich when they were unhorsed by the Democrats and insurgents on the wool bill. Aldrich would have been able to fix up a deal with the Democrats which would have staved off the inevitable slap at the finance committee and enabled him to carry out his own scheme, whatever it might have been.

Chairman Penrose of the finance committee, on the other hand, denounced the coalition of Democrats and insurgents as demagogism and roused the resentment of the allied forces to such an extent that they "put one over" on the committee of which he is the chairman. Aldrich never failed to win enough Democrats to offset losses on his own side. The successors of Aldrich do not seem to be able to do the same thing.

Not the Address of Bailey.
Senator Bailey had an address more than half a century old reprinted for the use of the senate. It was by Senator Haywood of North Carolina, who resigned on account of criticism and was re-elected.

"I did not observe," remarked one captious critic, "that Bailey had printed the address he delivered when he sent his resignation to the governor of Texas on March 4 last nor anything he may have said when he recalled that resignation."

Sherman Was Willing.
It is not to be supposed that the vice president favors faction or party in the senate, yet on the day when Penrose reported the wool bill and the free list bill adversely "Sunny Jim" asked if the Pennsylvania senator wanted the bills "indefinitely postponed." Prompted by this suggestion, Penrose answered in the affirmative, when Democrats and insurgents rushed forward with objections and had the bills placed on the calendar.

"It is usually the course," Sherman afterward explained, "to have bills indefinitely postponed when reported adversely," and he smiled that smile which has given him the name "Sunny Jim."

Visiting Statesmen.
While the extra session of congress has prevented many trips of committees to different parts of the country (trips often called junkets), it has not deterred statesmen from making short excursions in the way of inspections. River and harbor works in different parts of the country, more particularly on the Atlantic seaboard, have been visited by members of the committee which will pass upon them in the next annual appropriation bill.

On their own account many members of congress have been absent from Washington, and owing to the fact that no general legislation is contemplated they have not been missed. It is expected that different committees will make inspection trips when congress finally adjourns.

Isaiah's Prophecy Concerning Sennacherib. Isa. xxxvii:14-38.

Golden Text—God is our refuge and strength, a very present help in trouble. Ps. xli:1.

(1.) Verse 14.—What letter was it that Hezekiah spread before the Lord?
(2.) Is it the privilege of every man to spread all his letters, including those which give him trouble, before the Almighty God, and if so, what is the advantage in doing it?

(3.) What if any advantage is there in telling our troubles to God in the house of the Lord, over doing so in our own homes?

(4.) Verses 15-20.—Hezekiah tells God in much detail the nature of his troubles. Now what good is it to do that, seeing God knows all about it in any event?

(5.) Why does God not know all about our heartaches and our needs before we tell Him, in the same way as He knows afterward?

(6.) What is the advantage of urging God by all the argument we can think of, as Hezekiah does here, to answer our prayers?

(7.) What effect does the degree of our vehemence, or the extent of our desire, have upon God in answering our prayers?

(8.) Why did not God answer Hezekiah direct, instead of through Isaiah?

(9.) Apparently some men with equal goodness are better able to receive detailed messages from God than others. If this is so, why is it?

(10.) May we rest with absolute certainty in the assurance that having told God our needs, He will supply them? Why?

(11.) What is the reason for believing that no person and nothing can bring ultimate injury to a man, or a cause trusting in God?

(12.) Why are men so foolish as to think they can prevail against God?

(13.) Verse 29.—Why does God take injury done to His people as done against Himself?

(14.) Would you go so far as to say that every hurt by word or deed, done against a child of God, is done against God? Give your reasons.

(15.) Give an example of how God restrains the wicked as stated here, "I will put my hook into thy nose, and my bridle in the lips."

(16.) Verses 30-32.—As an example of how God rules, and overrules, think of your own blessings, and say how many of them are a result of your own efforts and how many from causes over which you have had no control?

(17.) Verses 33-37.—What means did God take to prevent Sennacherib from capturing Jerusalem?

(18.) How did the angels of the Lord slay probably 135,000 of the soldiers of the Assyrian army in one night? (Give some Bible examples of how such things have been done.)

(19.) Verse 38.—To what extent is it a rule that men get what they would like to give others and that "They who use the sword perish with the sword?" (This is one of the questions that may be answered in writing by members of the club.)

"STICK" WAS BIG BLACKSNAKE

Writer Tells of His Narrow Escape From the Deadly Reptile of the Australian Bush.

The blacksake is the danger of the Australian bush, and a deadly reptile he is, whose bite will kill any one in about eight minutes. Yet, notwithstanding all the warnings I was given, I never could remember to be on the lookout for snakes nor to avoid doing such foolish things as sitting on old dead tree trunks, which are their favorite hiding places.

I had just fired two barrels at a rabbit when just in front of me I saw a long, gnarled, black stick, a charred branch of a dead gum, as I thought. Another moment I should carelessly have stepped either across or on it, when one of the ladies of the party, who was walking with us, seized my arm and pulled me backward, calling out in a voice of terror: "Take care, it's a snake!" Roused by her voice, my "stick" woke up and a long blacksake wriggled away in front of us. The snake had got to its hole, but my rescuer gallantly belabored it with her stick, while my other companion rushed up and blew the tail off at a shot. Then one of the men dashed away for a spade, with which it was dug out, when we loosed both our 20 boures to make sure of killing it. It was a big snake and measured well over three feet. We were far more pleased with our one blacksake than if we had shot a hundred rabbits.—Westminster Gazette.

MEASURES 100,000TH OF AN INCH

New Apparatus of English Invention That Will Determine Extremely Minute Distances.

The extreme delicacy of scientific measurement is shown by an apparatus of English invention for comparing official standards of length. Its action depends upon the interference of light waves, causing shadow bands, the width of which is half the wave length of the light employed.

The red radiation from hydrogen or cadmium is used, and its wave length is, say, the 50-1,000th of an inch. The machine carries two microscopes, one of which is attached to one of the glass plates reflecting the light and producing the interference bands.

First, the recognized standard rod—say the imperial standard yard—is placed under the two microscopes, and one of its terminal marks is brought under the spider lines of each. Then the rod to be tested is substituted, and one of its terminals is accurately adjusted.

If it varies from the length of the standard, the other microscope, carrying the reflector, must be shifted until coincidence is obtained. The number of bands that move past during the shifting, multiplied by the half wave-lengths of the light, gives the difference in length of the rods.—Scientific American.

The remainder, it is said, will be moved as soon as machinery, preparing to removing it from service. As many as 1,000 have been employed at this yard at times. It is further reported that similar action will be taken with reference to other navy yards.

INTERURBAN WILL HAVE SPLENDID EQUIPMENT

Passenger And Freight Cars And Freight Locomotives Are Modern in Every Respect—Progress of Work on The Piedmont And Northern.

Spartanburg, S. C., June 29.—The passenger and express cars and the freight locomotives for the Piedmont and Northern electrical interurban railway have been ordered and shipment will begin about October of this year. The cars, especially the passenger coaches, will be handsome in every detail, and it is said that the interurban through the Piedmont section of this State will be one of the most handsomely and thoroughly equipped electrical interurban roads in the world. The order for the coaches and locomotives was placed some time ago and it is expected that a large number of the cars will be on the grounds before the end of the current year.

The equipment already ordered for the road includes 23 passenger coaches. These are 60 feet in length over all. They are handsomely finished inside, the woodwork being of mahogany and the windows being of heavy plate glass. The passenger coaches are as handsome as any put out by the manufacturers.

Each of the passenger coaches is fitted with its own electrical propelling apparatus, each car being equipped with four 100 horse power motors, making each car of 400 horse power. Besides these 23 passenger coaches there are 8 express coaches similarly equipped.

The freight trains on the road are to be moved by a different system. Each passenger coach is fitted with its own motor, whereas the freight trains are to be hauled by locomotives, one locomotive hauling a very long train of ordinary freight cars. Five electrical locomotives of the latest model have been ordered for use on the road. Each of these weighs 5 tons and is capable of hauling a train of 1200 tons on a one per cent grade. The locomotives are so equipped as to be used as double-headers, two locomotives may be put to one train in tandem. If necessary two locomotives may be used to one train of 70 loaded freight cars. One locomotive is capable of hauling 40 loaded cars.

The work of the Greenville-Greenville division of the interurban is progressing rapidly. The Oliver company and the various sub-contracting companies are making great headway in the work of preparing the road bed for the laying of rails. As yet no rails have been laid on the division of the road between this city and Greenwood, but this, it was stated by the local management of the road this morning, would be begun within the next 60 days, possibly in 30 days. Rails are now being laid on the Northern division of the road, between Charlotte and Kings Mountain, and it will be a matter of only a few months before the grading on the southern division is far enough under way to permit the laying of the steel ties.

AMATEUR ATHLETIC UNION CHAMPIONSHIPS

Track And Field Meet Today And Saturday in Pittsburg—Entry List Largest in History of Such Events in This Country—Irish Americans Picked For Winners.

Special to Telegram.

Pittsburg, Pa., June 29.—The attention of the whole athletic world is centered on Pittsburg today in eager anticipation of the greatest track and field meet in America's athletic history tomorrow and Saturday, when the annual national championships of the Amateur Athletic Union will be held on Forbes Field. The entry list is the largest of any meet ever held in this country, and the class of the competitors makes it certain that several world's records will go by the boards.

Light workouts were the order of the day at the training headquarters of the different clubs today and the word was given out that practically every one of the athletes is in the prime of condition. The junior championships will be decided tomorrow, while Saturday the big senior program will bring forth the country's best in every event. From the point winners in the senior events will be chosen the men who will represent the United States in the Olympic games at Stockholm, Sweden, a year from now.

Although crack squads are entered from every large athletic organization between the Atlantic and Pacific, the battle for the club point trophy seems to be between the two big New York institutions, the Irish-American A. C. and the New York Athletic Club. The former apparently has the call, represented by probably the greatest galaxy of stars ever assembled under the colors of one club. The Chicago A. A., Olympic Club of San Francisco, Boston Athletic Association, Pastime A. C. of New York, Philadelphia A. C., Missouri Athletic Club of St. Louis, Cleveland A. C., Kansas City Athletic Club and the Pittsburg Athletic Association will doubtless each score in many of the events, however, and some one of these may spring a "dark horse" and win out over the favorites.

The Pittsburg Press which has charge of the meet under the supervision of the A. A. U., has scheduled an innovation for this year's championship in throwing open the gates to the public without charging an admission fee. This, it is expected, will result in the largest crowd that ever witnessed an athletic carnival in this country. The huge stands at Forbes Field, where the Pirates usually play, will accommodate 30,000 persons, and it is a practical certainty that not only will every seat be filled but that there will have to be overflow ropes stretched on the field.

The specially constructed quarter-mile track, built under the personal supervision of Mike Murphy, the celebrated University of Pennsylvania trainer and athletic authority, has been put in perfect shape. Today none of the athletes were allowed to use the track for their workouts, but were shunted over to Schenley Oval—excepting those squads which have been training at their private camps. All day a crowd of laborers worked with rollers putting the 440-yard path into condition, and it was declared by the famous Murphy tonight that never has there been a faster track furnished for the national event, which means that athletic history is due to be created.

As in the senior events, the Irish-American Club of New York, owns most of the favorites for the junior contests tomorrow. Among their junior stars are Bob Terwilliger, Drew Valentine, Arthur Lovell, Andy Sheridan, Harold McGuire, Joe Huysman, George Forster and Al McDonald. The New York A. C. figures next in these events, but the local athletes of the Pittsburg A. C. count on making a good showing. The club held a handicap tryout meet last Saturday, and some excellent performances were recorded.

Tomorrow's junior program, the same as the seniors on Saturday, will contain the following events: 100- and 200-yard dashes; 440-yard run, half mile and mile runs, 120-yard high and 220-yard low hurdles, running high jump, running broad jump, pole vault, running hop-step jump, discus throw, shot put, hammer throw, five mile run and javelin throw.

The governor of Pennsylvania, John K. Tener, will be honorary referee of the senior events on Saturday, while Major William A. Magee, of Pittsburg, will hold the same position tomorrow. The active officials are under the A. A. U. National Championship Committee, composed of James H. Sullivan, New York, chairman; Bartow S. Weeks of New York, George F. Pawling of Philadelphia, Thomas F. Riley of Cambridge, Mass., Edward E. Bab, of Boston, and Dr. George K. Herman of Chicago, Everett C. Brown, of Chicago, president of the A. A. U., will be on hand as the court of last resort on appeals of the judges' decisions.

Lawson Robertson, coach of the Irish-Americans from the metropolis, has brought with him forty athletes, each a star in his special events, for the senior championship. It is said that he fears the cracks from the Pacific coast and the middle West and, as a result, tried to keep secret the strength of his team when he did not send in the entry blanks of his men until the last day before the entries closed. In the squad are some of the most noted athletes who ever donned a spiked shoe.

Martin Sheridan, world's champion discus thrower, John Flanagan, champion hammer thrower; Gyan Henry, Jack Archer, Jim Rosenberg and Bob Cloughen, sprinters; Bob and Jack Eller, hurdlers; Abel Kiviat and Mel Sheppard, middle-distancers; Jack Monument, Jim Sullivan, John Daly, Tom Collins, J. Elliott and George Bonhag, long distance men, and Eddie Erickson, high jumper, are some of the best known of the Irish athletes.

The Pacific coast stars of the Olympic Athletic Club of San Francisco are stellar performers in their individual specialties. Bill Wyman, sprinter; Sam Bellah, pole-vaulter; Ed. Macauley, quarter-miler; Earl Campbell, sprinter; Sid Snediger, all-round crack; George Horine, who does 6 feet, 4 inches in the high jump, and Captain Pete Gerhardt, one of the speediest 100- and 220-yard men in the country, are some of the Olympic stars.

Martin Delaney's twenty Chicagoans are certain to make a good showing. Ira Davenport, the collegiate champion quarter-miler, is looked upon as a pos-

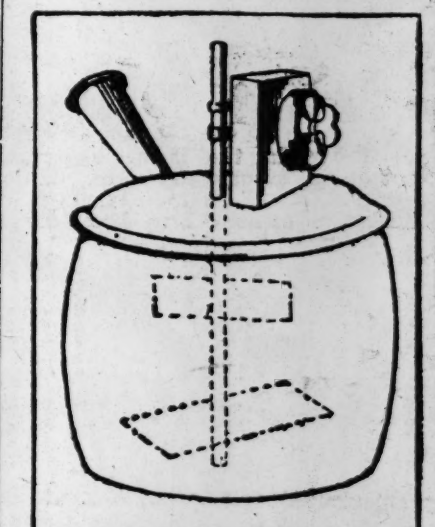

USE AN AUTOMATIC STIRRER

Mechanical Apparatus on Lid of Saucepan Does the Work Easily and Effectively.

There are some vands which the cook is compelled to prepare frequently which must be stirred constantly while they are on the stove or else they will burn. This is particularly true of some cereals, and the temptation is strong on the part of the cook to divide her attention with other articles also in the course of preparation, with the result that one or the other often suffers.

The automatic stirring saucepan is a new invention which is likely to meet with great popularity.

A rod fitted with transverse blades runs through the center of the saucepan and is fastened to a clockwork attachment on the lid of the pan. When the spring is wound up the rod moves around and the two blades agitate the contents of the saucepan far more effectively than an ordinary spoon would.

sible smasher of the record in that event, while Frank Irons, the Olympic jump hero, is also likely to hang up a new mark.

The New York A. C. which gave the Irishmen an awful rub in last year's championships at New Orleans, will have practically all its old men in line, as well as several new ones, developed by the veteran Bernie Wefers. Among the foremost of these are Platt Adams, Grum-pelt and Fielding, jumpers, Frick, Pack-ara and Jessup, sprinters; Gardner and Babcock, pole vaulters, all of whom loom up as possible point winners.

The Pastime A. C. of New York, is represented by a small but select squad, with Jim Duncan, discus thrower; Le Roy Dorland, middle-distance runner, Dan Healy, jumper, and a few others.

The roofing that lasts and is one can lay. Thousands of the most progressive farmers, dairymen, poultrymen, etc., as well as railroad companies and the U. S. Government use PAROID for roofing and siding in preference to all others, because they have proved that PAROID is the most economical, the most durable, and the most satisfactory of all ready roofings.

THIS IS WHY: It is made of extra strong felt with an extra good saturation and coating, which makes it proof against sparks, cinders, water, heat, cold, acids, and fumes. Slate color, contains no tar, does not run or crack, and it does not stain rain-water. The only roofing with rust-proof caps. They cannot rust out like ordinary roof caps. Don't be put off with a cheap imitation, get the most economical and durable—the roofing that lasts.

TWELVE-INNING CONTEST BROKEN UP BY DOAK

Nerve-Racking, Sizzling Game Won by Doyleites From The Spartanburgers—Was Pitchers' Battle And Several Other Kinds of Scorching Scrap—Carroll Back in Game—Spartans Have New Shortstop.

Doak's sizzling single broke up a 12-inning contest about sundown yesterday, and gave Greensboro the first of a series of three games here with Spartanburg by a score of 3 to 2. Of all the games here this season it was perhaps the most trying on the nerves, for time after time it looked like one side or the other might score the needed run and then didn't get it. When Laval's tribe would be at the bat and get a hit or base on balls the crowd would be almost breathless until some pretty bit of fielding would save the day or Dr. Tony Walters would fan the dangerous looking batters. When the Patriots would get a man on second or third, as they did several times, the spectators would hope for the necessary hit, but inning after inning Wood would keep the tribe of Doyle from reaching the plate.

Aside from the close score the game was replete with plays by fielders that will make it stand out as one of the really great battles of the summer. Two catches by Carroll, who was back in the game and playing in right garden, brought rounds of applause from the grandstands, while Kipp, the new short stop for the Spartans, made a one-hand stop of Fuller's line drive that was a really brilliant piece of work. Both Walters and Wood were in splendid form and viewed from any standpoint the two divided honors about evenly. Only one error was made on the Patriots' side and this in the eighth frame, when Doak muffed a ball thrown him by Corwin and allowed the run that tied the score. There were two errors by the Spartans but they did not contribute to the run-getting of the locals.

The game opening up with Kipp first at the bat, and Carroll set the pace for the day by a pretty running catch of a fly ball on the foul line, and the next two men went out without seeing first. In the locals' half of the first Doyle got a pretty two-base hit, was advanced to third by Fuller and scored on Doak's single. In their half of the fifth Laval's men tied the score. Wood led off with a single, Kipp got a free pass to first and Wood went to second. Laval singled and scored Wood. In the same inning Fuller struck at a wild pitch and made first safely. Doak sacrificed him to second. Clapp singled and brought Fuller across the plate. In the eighth the score was again tied up when Totman singled, was sacrificed to second. Wagon hit to Corwin who threw to third in time to catch Totman, but Doak missed the ball and Totman scored.

During the next four innings there was no run-getting thought both sides worked like Trojans. Once Carroll got a walk, was sacrificed to second and came near scoring on Rickard's single, but his slowing down at third and Wagon's sure throw to the plate resulted in Westlake's putting him out as he came to the rubber. Finally the last half of the twelfth rolled around and the Patriots started down the batting list for the sixth time. Rickard and Doyle singled and were sacrificed to second and third, respectively, by Fullers. With two strikes on him, Doak hit a hard one by the pitcher. Williams grabbed the sphere and threw it to Westlake—but too late, Rickard had crossed the rubber and the fans were running for the cars.

Umpire O'Brien, who, despite his work yesterday, is the best umpire in the league, slipped up on one or two decisions and was off on balls and strikes. His decision in calling a bunt of Clapp's that Wood knocked out of the line a foul was considerably punky and deserved the criticism that came from the grandstand.

THIRTEEN-INNING GAME WENT TO SMITH'S SPINNERS

Greenville, June 29.—With pretty playing until towards the last and both pitchers effective, with the exception of one inning each, today's game ran for thirteen innings, Greenville then winning 6 to 5. From the eighth inning the score was tied. A double play in the eleventh saved the Electricians for a while but in the thirteenth a single, a short two-bagger and a wild pitch won the game for the locals with no outs. Wolfe got a homer with one on in the fifth, and Ridgeway got a three-bagger with one on in the second.

HORNETS AND TWINS DIVIDE EVEN IN A DOUBLE-HEADER

Charlotte, June 29.—Heavy hitting featured the contests between the Hornets and the Twins this afternoon. There were forty hits for a total of sixty bases. Twelve tallies were made in each game. Wofford carried off the batting honors with a home run, triple, double and a single, while Shumaker netted six hits out of eight chances. The former was presented with a purse by the enthusiastic Charlotte fans, following his home run. McMillan also knocked one good for a circle of the bases. O'Halloran and Agnew featured in the fielding.

The first game went to Charlotte, the entire pitching staff of the Twins being used in an unsuccessful effort to stop the Hornets. Charlotte started off in the second game like she was taking the entire honors, but the Twins pounced on Van Pelt in the fourth and fifth and sewed up the game. Hankie went into the box in the sixth and held the Twins down. The failure of the Hornets to change pitchers at the proper time lost the contest.

Two thousand people witnessed the games.

DIAMOND DUST

Same kind of baseball will be offered the fans again today.

Rather have "Chic" Doak than Walker, Cashion and Swindell all.

It is the opportuneness (no copyright on the word) of the Patriots' hits that causes them to be the best team in the league.

Never were really uneasy about the result of the game, but was mighty afraid darkness would come on before the winning run was made.

Game couldn't have gone much longer. To Umpire O'Brien the darkness came on about the eighth inning and he would have called it before many more frames.

The improvement in the ensemble work of the Musicians since their last visit is noticeable. Even with some new players the result is more harmonious than when the others were there.

No longer the proud figure of Clarence Walker and the meek face and form of Will Wynne are seen in the lineup of the Spartans. But their places have been well-filled with Wideman and Totman.

While the attendance was fair yesterday it was not what the team deserves when it is winning five games to every two it loses. Let's have a crowd out today to back up the team and again we shall see the same kind of ball as yesterday.

We rejoice with the Hornets in the find they have in Sheesley. True he beats us, but it gives life to the team and works out to our advantage when the Hornets go up against the obstreperous Twins.

Much obliged to you, Charlotte. If you will win two out of the four we shall do our part in the meantime and end the week at the top of the percentage column.

Several improvements are noted at the park. Covered benches have been provided for the players, and this fills a want that has been a long-felt one among the visiting players. A grandstand for colored people has been provided down in right field also.

W. B. ROSSON HELD UP LAST NIGHT BY NEGRO

W. B. Rosson was the victim of a daring hold-up yesterday evening about dusk, when a burly negro relieved him of his valuables at the point of a pistol. Mr. Rosson was going from his shop on South Davis street to his home on Martin street at the close of the day's work and as he started across the railroad at the Sergeant alley crossing the robber stepped from his place of concealment, poked a gun in his face, secured a pocket-book containing about $5 and a few keys and other articles, and straightway departed from the scene for parts that are as yet unknown to any but himself.

Mr. Rosson describes his assailant as being a black negro of heavy build. The plan to commit the highway robbery was clearly pre-arranged, the thief having evidently picked his man, knowing his manner of going to his home, and had quietly laid in wait for him to pass. The revolver was leveled at Mr. Rosson's head in a menacing fashion and the accompanying command of the negro when he had the "drop" so plainly left no alternative other than to lift his hands above his head and submit quietly to the robbery.

When allowed to go free at the end of the job, Mr. Rosson quickly communicated the details of the affair to police headquarters and several policemen hurried to the scene. For some time they scoured the neighboring territory, but with no results, and though the search was continued throughout the night the fugitive has not yet been caught but his capture is expected shortly.

FIVE NURSES GRADUATE AT ST. LEO'S

Last night at St. Leo's Hospital five young ladies received diplomas as graduate nurses, the diplomas being presented by Father Vincent Taylor. Dr. J. W. Long presented to each of the graduates a class ring, making a brief presentation speech. The graduates are Misses Addie Hoke, Maude Fulton, Rosetta Shannon, Belle Grant, Mary Herganrother.

Following the graduation exercises, which were brief, the young ladies gave a play, entitled "Jumbo Jum." A solo by Miss Brooks, "Memory," was greatly enjoyed.

"Have you tried what they call the coronation cocktail?"
"No; what about it?"
"You have to take it cautiously; it goes right to the head."—Chicago Tribune.
